URUGUAY — LA PALOMA, ROCHA

La Paloma territorial node

Focal point: Federico Pérez

RECOVERING RESOURCES

Solid waste management, coastal protection, fisheries and the territorial economy

La Paloma is a coastal territory where waste, tourism, fisheries, gastronomy, marine ecosystems and local development form part of a shared territorial context. Solid waste management offers opportunities to move towards circular economy models; coastal protection highlights the need to reconcile economic activities with conservation; and fisheries and gastronomy provide opportunities to explore how local resources can generate greater value within the territory itself.

